are happening

Yes sir, Wonderful things ARE happening down in Atlantic City. During a recent telephone conversation with VIC BACKER, he stated that this Convention will be full of NEW and DIFFERENT division Association activities. As you know, Atlantic City is a famous vacation and convention City - in most any season, so plan, and plan hard to make it down there next August.

The Committee has been busy during the past few months, in checking the various Hotels, and sites in and around Atlantic, City, and after several complete checks, numerous meetings, and much negotiating, selected the Ambassador, on the Boardwalk.

The AMBASSADOR has complete facilities for vacationing and for a Convention such as ours. We understand there is a Golf Course, Swimming, Boating, Sitter service & Nurseries for the Children, and everything you could ask for, ...as well as night life:

Why take a vacation, and then, as is the case with a few, not be able to get away again for the Reunion? Plan your vacation this year and EVERY year around the Annual Convention of the 24th. Those members who have once done this have been returning year after year. The number of couples and families attending has constantly been growing.

In a later issue, you will find a Hotel Reservation Card. This card will give the room rates, etc. Please complete the card as soon as you receive it, filling in your date of arrival, date of departure, type and price room (We will have special rates), and give the Hotel any other information necessary. It is IMPORTANT that this information be received soon after you get your card, in order that the Association Convention Committee as well as the Hotel can make plans for you.

Another big meeting is being held this week at the Hotel, and detailed information regarding programs, menues, licker prices, plus all the other information you will be interested in hearing about will be forwarded to the editor. By the time you get this issue, the Convention Issue will be going to press, and when you get it, read it carefully...it will be full of Convention plans, and you won't want to miss a single word of it.

Remember the date: 11, 12, 13, &14 AUGUST 1960.
Remember the Place: AMBASSADOR, ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.
Any Questions? If so Write to any of the Officers of the Assn., or to Chairmen of the Convention Committee. These addresses will be found in column one, page two of each issue of the Taro Leaf.

Germany's Oldest Printing Firm Produces Division Rewspaper

Augsburg Print Shop Established in 1470 by Student of Gutenbera

From Gutenberg To Taro Leaf Story by McKellar

From the hand operated presses of the fifteenth century to the giant modern presses which turn out by the hundreds the paper that you are now reading one may draw a very real picture of printing history. The TARO LEAF is produced every week by the oldest existing printing firm in Germany and possibly the oldest in the world. It was in the fifteenth century that Erhard Ratdolt established the office in the city of Augsburg that grew through the years into the firm which now produces the Victory Division's weekly news medium, the TARO LEAF.

Ratdolt, a student of Johann Gutenberg, famous as the father of printing was one of many expressions.

as the father of printing, was one of many apprentices who learned the printing art from the master.

Guenberg's fame rests on his invention of move-able type characters which could be put together to form words, sentences and pages of what we know as copy. In this manner he produced the Mainz Bible in 1455 or possibly as early as 1454 which is widely know today as the Gutenberg Bible.

widely know today as the Gutenberg Bible.
With an inventive and alert mind Raidolt combined a superior cultural sense and a solid mastery of his trade. Having first set up a printing shop in Venice, Raidolt absorbed the spirit of the Italian Renaissance which found expression in his skillful and artistic work. He then returned from Venice to his hometown of Augsburg, the city of the Fuggers and Welsers, and world-renowned as a medieval center of culture.

In this expression is setting Raidolt became points.

In this cosmopolitan setting Ratdolt began plying his art and issured from his shop many excellent specimens that will forever be remembered in the annals of printing history.

He was responsible for introducing many techni-cal innovations to printing in his Augsburg shop. As early as 1486 Ratdoit was producing works using up to five different colors and he was the first to produce and print in gold color.

The long list of works that went forth from his shop included those in the fields of literature, mathe-matics and other learned subjects as well as calen-dars that enhanced the fame of the City of Augsburg wherever they appeared.

cars that enhanced the fame of the City of Augsburg wherever they appeared.

In 1516 Ratdolt turned the shop over to his son George. He died in 1527 or 1528 at the age of 81, little known to the world as a pioneer of printing.

The press of the fifteenth century that Ratdolt used was a crude adaptation of the wine and cheese presses then in use. It was composed of two upright timbers braced against celling and floor and employing cross members to support a heavy wooden screw to bring pressure upon the printing surface.

Linked with Erhard Ratdolt's life work is the firm of Hieronymus Muhlberger, founded in 1470, making it Gemany's oldest printing office. While some details of its background defy precise research, as occurs so often in an attempt to unravel history of a long bygone age, it has nonetheless been established that the present firm of Muhlberger is descended in direct lineage from Augsburg's great printer, Ratdolt. His printing office was relocated several times and often changed hands until the 19th century when it entered upon a period of new development.

DID IT ever occur to you that a man's life is full of crosses and temptations? He comes into the world without his consent and goes out against his will, and the trip between is exceedingly rocky. The rule of the contraries is one of the features of this trip.

When he is little, the big girls kiss him; when he is big, the little girls kiss him. If he is poor, he is a bad manager; if he is rich, he is dishonest. If he needs credit, he can't get it; if he is prosperous, everyone wants to do him a favor.

If he is in politics, it is for graft; if he is out of politics, he is no good to the country. If he doesn't give to charity, he is a stingy cuss; if he does, it's for show. If he is actively religious. he is a hypocrite; if he takes no interest in religion, he is a hardened sinner.

If he gives affection, he is a soft specimen: if he cares for no one, he is cold-blooded. If he dies young there was a great future for him; if he lives to an old age, he missed his calling.

> If you save money, you're a grouch, If you spend it, you're a loafer, If you get it, you're a grafter, If you don't get it, you're a bum,

MacArthur and Football

"Upan the fields of friendly strife are sown the seeds that upon other fields on other days will bear the fruits of victory." This slogan, inscribed in letters of bronze on the gymnasium at West Point, was created by General of the Army Douglas MacArthur, who on Tuesday will receive at a dinner in New York City the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame's second annual Gold Medal Award for outstanding contributions to amateur football

MacArthur, the hero of the Pacific war, has exhibited an unflagging interest in this strictly American game. He was a prep school quarterback in 1898, and manager of the West Point team in 1902. (Last year's winner of the award was President Eisenhower, a promising Army halfback until his right knee was injured in 1913 during his sophomore year.)

Some idea of the value placed on the award by Gen. Mac-Arthur, now a vigorous 79 years of age, may be gathered from his comment when advised of his selection as the Gold Medal recipient. The General, who already holds such decorations as the Medal of Honor, DFC, DSC, etc., has said of the Gold Medal Award, "This is an honor I deserve the least, but will cherish
